Works-in-Progress Session Call for Submissions

The AALS Sections on Education Law and Children and the Law invite submissions for a Works-in-Progress session to be held September 22-23, 2023, in Chicago, IL at Loyola University Chicago School of Law. The purpose of the session is to provide a collegial and supportive environment for advancing scholarship and promoting cross-fertilization between scholars working in related areas of the law. We invite contributions from all legal scholars writing on issues of education law and/or children's law. Topics may include any area relating to children and the law, PreK-12 education, or higher education law. Paper proposals may be at any stage in the research and writing process, from early works in progress to quasi-completed articles, as long as the papers are still "in progress." We invite a diverse range of proposals and especially encourage new and junior faculty to participate.

To submit your work in progress for consideration, please send the title and a brief abstract (up to 500 words) of your work in progress, along with your name and contact information (including institutional affiliation) using the form here by July 15, 2023. If you have any difficulties using the form, you can also submit the information above to Loyola's Education Law and Policy Institute, EdLaw-Institute@luc.edu. Members of the leadership of both sections will review proposals and notify presenters by late July.

The WIP session will begin on Friday, September 22 at 1 p.m., and it will end on Saturday, September 23 by 1 p.m. There is no registration fee to attend, but participants, including presenters, must pay their own travel expenses. Loyola has secured a discounted hotel rate at the Homewood Suites in Chicago for this event. You may register to participate in this conference here and will receive hotel booking instructions after registration.

Please contact Miranda Johnson, Section on Education Law, mjohnson11@luc.edu, or Sacha Coupet, Section on Children and the Law, scoupet@luc.edu, with questions about the WIP session or the submission process.
