Message From The Chair

Dear Section on Law, Medicine and Health Care Members,

It has been a wonderful opportunity to serve as Chair of our outstanding Section this year. I extend my deepest gratitude to Professor Medha D. Makhlouf (Elsie de R. and Samuel P. Orlando Distinguished Professor & Director, Medical-Legal Partnership Clinic, Penn State Dickinson Law) for her fantastic work as Section Chair-Elect. Professor Makhlouf organized our Section's comprehensive programming for the 2024 AALS Annual Meeting and will serve as 2024 Section Chair. I also want to thank Professor Seema Mohapatra (MD Anderson Foundation Endowed Professor in Health Law and Professor of Law, SMU Dedman School of Law) for her outstanding service as Section Secretary. Professor Mohapatra collected our Section members' myriad annual accomplishments and created this newsletter. Professor Mohapatra will serve as 2024 Section Chair-Elect. Thank you for your service, Professors Makhlouf and Mohapatra.

I am also grateful for the work of this year's Executive Committee, composed of Professors Yael Cannon (Georgetown University Law Center), Doron Dorfman (Seton Hall University School of Law), Mary Pareja (University of New Mexico School of Law), Robyn Powell (University of Oklahoma College of Law), and Stacey Tovino (University of Oklahoma College of Law). The Executive Committee guides the Section on numerous important matters, including the Section's programming at the AALS Annual Meeting, the recipient of the Section's annual Health Law Service Award, and the Section elections. Thank you very much for your service, Executive Committee members. Finally, I want to extend a hearty congratulations to Professor Lindsay Wiley (Professor of Law and Faculty Director, Health Law and Policy Program, UCLA School of Law) for her unanimous selection for the Section's 2024 Distinguished Health Law Service Award. As many members of this Section emphasized during the selection process, Professor Wiley's impact on the field of health law is remarkable and perhaps second only to her extraordinary dedication to—and support of—her health law colleagues in the academy.

Congratulations, Professor Wiley, for your well-earned selection as this year's distinguished Section awardee.

I encourage all Section members to register for and attend the 2024 AALS Annual Meeting, which takes place this year in Washington, DC from January 3-6, 2024. Please consider attending our Section's terrific primary and co-sponsored events at this year's conference. As detailed later in this newsletter, our Section's primary events include a junior scholars' works-in-progress session ("New Voices in Law, Medicine, and Health Care") and a substantive panel ("The End of the COVID-19 Public Health Emergency: Lessons Learned and the Future of Pandemic Law"). Our Section is co-sponsoring three additional substantive panels that are primarily sponsored by other Sections, including "Patient Privacy and Health Information Confidentiality at a Crossroads" (AALS Section on Biolaw), "Preparing for the Demands of an Aging Population" (AALS Section on Aging and the Law; Co-Sponsored by the AALS Sections on Disability Law and Poverty Law), and "A New Look at Mental Health Parity" (AALS Section on Law and Mental Disability; Co-Sponsored by the AALS Section on Law Professors with Disabilities and Allies). Thank you all for your inspiring work and I look forward to seeing everyone at the Annual Meeting in Washington, DC.

2024 Distinguished Health Law Service Award

The AALS Section on Law, Medicine, and Health Care congratulates Lindsay F. Wiley for being named the recipient of the 2024 Distinguished Health Law Service Award.

Professor Wiley graduated with her undergraduate degree from Harvard College and earned her J.D. from Harvard Law School and her M.P.H. from Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. She currently serves as professor of law at UCLA Law and Faculty Director of the Health Law and Policy Program at UCLA Law. Professor Wiley teaches torts and various health law courses. Her research focuses on access to health care and healthy living conditions in the U.S. and globally. She is the author of Public Health Law: Power, Duty, Restraint and Public Health Law and Ethics: A Reader (with Lawrence O. Gostin) and Feminist Judgments: Health Law Rewritten (with Seema Mohapatra).

Professor Wiley received this award for her exemplary service to the health law field. She has served in many leadership roles, including as past president of the American Society of Law, Medicine, and Ethics and chair of numerous substantive conferences and initiatives. Through this work, she has helped develop the health justice framework and to expand the health law field to become more inclusive and to center issues of social and racial justice. Professor Wiley is a national expert on public health law issues and has committed significant time to explaining and translating complex public health issues to the lay public via media interviews and her writing, especially during the COVID-19 pandemic. She is the U.S. Rapporteur for the Lex-Atlas COVID-19 Project, a global project comparing responses to Covid-19, sponsored by the University College London, King's College London, and the Max Planck Institute of Comparative Public Law and International Law in Heidelberg, Germany. She is also the Founder and Co-Chair of the Health Justice: Engaging Critical Perspectives in Health Initiative cosponsored by ChangeLab Solutions, LLC, the Institute for Healing Justice and Equity, and the Satcher Health Leadership Institute. She has served as a member of and consultant to committees convened by the National Academies of Science, Engineering, and Medicine related to public health emergency response and federal communicable disease control powers. She is a current member and incoming chair of the Board of Directors of ChangeLab Solutions, LLC. Professor Wiley is also a former member of the National Conference of Lawyers and Scientists, a joint standing committee of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Bar Association's Section of Science and Technology Law.

Professor Wiley's impact on the field cannot be overstated. As one section member noted, "She spearheaded the field of health justice, fundamentally shaping my scholarly approach through her pioneering work reframing public health law via an ethical lens and cementing equity into legal and policy decisions. As an exceptional mentor, she has advanced my career through generous guidance—modeling intellectual rigor, connecting me with key scholars, supporting my growth as a scholar and teacher, and reassuringly counseling me through the ups and downs along the way." These sentiments were echoed by a number of our colleagues. Another section member noted "Professor Wiley represents everything you could hope for in a scholar, teacher, and colleague. She is simultaneously exceptional and authentic—an internationally recognized expert with robust knowledge while also remaining generous, humble, and curious. She uses her knowledge and experience as gifts for and in service to others, never as a shield or a weapon for self-aggrandizement. She recognizes potential in others and provides them with opportunities wherever she can. Many of us in the section have personally been the beneficiary of her generosity on multiple occasions. On top of her many academic achievements, Professor Wiley is a genuinely kind, thoughtful, and funny person who manages to take her work incredibly seriously while not taking herself too seriously. She is a rare gem, as an academic and as a person. We are all better for her presence in our lives and in this field."

Congratulations, Professor Wiley, on being named the recipient of the AALS Section on Law, Medicine and Health Care's 2024 Distinguished Health Law Service Award!

SCHOOL, PROGRAM, AND FACULTY NEWS

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY WASHINGTON COLLEGE OF LAW

Health Law and Policy Program: Recent Events

Future of Health Care Series: The Health Law and Policy Program launched the Future of Health Care Series in January 2023 in partnership with the American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics and the American Health Law Association. Within a health equity framework, these panel discussions examine trends, challenges, and opportunities in health care and the role of law and policy, highlighting both practitioner and scholar perspectives. New topics will be explored in 2024. • Genomics, AI, and the African Diaspora (November 2023) • LGBTQ+ Health Equity and Access to Gender Affirming Care (October 2023) • Rethinking Health Reform and the Role of Medicaid in Advancing Health Equity (April 2023) • Health Care Through the Lens of Health Equity (January 2023).

Health, Equity, and Law after Dobbs: The Health Law and Policy Program, American University Center on Health, Risk & Society, The George Washington Law School, and The George Washington University Milken Institute School of Public Health, in partnership with the American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics, presented "Health, Equity, and Law after Dobbs" in February 2023. This interdisciplinary conference brought together experts to examine the legal, medical, public health, and sociological aftermath of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization. By assembling an interdisciplinary group of researchers, practitioners, and advocates, the conference provided a fuller picture of both the impact of the law on the books and the realities of the law on the ground. The conference helped scholars, practitioners, advocates, and students understand current policy and practice related to abortion, as well as the reverberating effects of the Dobbs decision on the delivery of health care and society more broadly. It also aimed to develop a research agenda and a broader strategic focus for advancing more equitable access to reproductive health care in the long term.

Health Law and Policy Program: Upcoming Events

Social Determinants of Health and Health Equity: The Health Law and Policy Program is pleased to support the student-led Health Law & Policy Brief's annual symposium, which will be held on Thursday, March 7, 2024. At the intersection of health, law, and medicine, this hybrid event will bring together community stakeholders, medical professionals, legal scholars, and policy makers to discuss the inequities that impact health, with a focus on social determinants of health and healthcare quality and access.

Therapeutic Use of Psychedelic Drugs: Legal, Policy, and Neuroscientific Perspectives: The Health Law and Policy Program is pleased to partner with American University's Center for Neuroscience and Behavior and the American University School of Public Affairs to present this one day-symposium on Friday, April 12, 2024. This program will bring together experts who are recognized nationally and internationally to speak on timely topics. • The science underlying what is known about the effects of psychedelic drugs on the brain • The clinical science evaluating efficacy of these drugs in the treatment of psychiatric disorders • Ethical ramifications of research and therapies involving psychedelic drugs • Legal and policy perspectives on the regulation of psychedelic drug research and therapies • Patents and commercialization • Patient perspectives about their experiences with drug therapy • Traditional use of psychedelic substances by indigenous cultures.

GEORGIA STATE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF LAW

Center News: The Center for Law, Health & Society at Georgia State Law is sad to announce the death of our beloved colleague Professor Emerita Charity Scott, who passed away on March 18, 2023, after a long battle with cancer. She was the founding director of the Center for Law, Health & Society and the co-founder of Health Law Partnership (HeLP), our medical-legal partnership. Under her leadership and through her vision, our health law program grew from one course to the nationally-recognized program with a vast array of courses and experiential learning opportunities that it is today. It is because of her that we are also celebrating the 20th anniversary of the Center in 2024 and looking forward to an exciting future!

The Center is proud of the following health law faculty achievements: Timothy Lytton was named a Regents' Professor, the highest rank within the University System of Georgia, in recognition of his national and international expertise on litigation and regulation, including in the areas of gun violence, food safety, and opioid use. He also received the David J. Maleski Award for Teaching Excellence, for innovations in teaching methods and significant contributions to the promotion of student learning. Paul Lombardo, Regents' Professor and Bobby Lee Cook Professor of Law, received the Sheth Distinguished Faculty Award for International Achievement for his work in Pakistan teaching bioethics. Leslie Wolf, Distinguished University Professor, was appointed as an adjunct professor at Augusta University, the medical college of Georgia, and is a co-investigator on a grant that seeks to determine if community engagement increases recruitment and retention of racially and ethnically diverse research samples. Anjali Deshmukh, Assistant Professor, was selected as a 2023 Health Law Scholar for her research related to Medicaid payments for cures of rare and genetic diseases. Health Law Scholars is sponsored by the American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics and Saint Louis University Center for Health Law Studies. Stacie Kershner, Deputy Director of the Center for Law, Health & Society, was awarded the 2023 Steven J. Kaminshine Award for Excellence in Service.

The Center recently hosted the symposium The Public Health Administrative State Under Fire: Restoring Trust in the CDC and FDA (with keynote speaker Sara Rosenbaum); a discussion and screening on Netflix's Poisoned: The Dirty Truth About Your Food; A Canary in the Coalmine: What it Means to Lose a Constitutional Right (66th Miller Lecture, with keynote speaker Mary Ziegler); a workshop on The Vaccine Injury Compensation Program; health law career panels; and the ever popular Bioethics at the Movies, focusing on themes from Shakespearean plays: "To Be or Not to Be: Bioethics with the Bard."

Conference Announcements and Calls for Papers: To honor the life and vision of Charity Scott and to celebrate our 20th anniversary, we are hosting reception and symposium on Defining the Future of Health Law on February 15-16, 2024. More information is available on our website.

Stacie Kershner, Deputy Director and Senior Academic Professional, reports the following publications: Longitudinal Policy Surveillance of Private Insurance Hearing Aid Mandates in the US, 1997-2022, AJPH (forthcoming).

HARVARD LAW SCHOOL

PETRIE-FLOM CENTER FOR HEALTH LAW POLICY, BIOTECHNOLOGY, AND BIOETHICS

Center News. The Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology, and Bioethics welcomed a new Executive Director in June 2023. Susannah Baruch, J.D. joined the Petrie-Flom Center as an experienced Executive Director, with expertise in health law policy and ethics and a particular interest in reproduction, genetics, and women's health. Former

Executive Director Carmel Shachar stepped down to join the Center for Health Law and Policy Innovation at Harvard Law School, where she serves as assistant clinical professor of law and faculty director of the Health Law and Policy Clinic.

The Petrie-Flom Center received support for the expansion of two signature research initiatives. First, in October 2023, the Center announced a new gift from the Gracias Family Foundation, which supports and expands the work that the Center began with the Project on Psychedelics Law and Regulation \(POPLAR\) at the Petrie-Flom Center. Started in June 2021 with a grant from the Saisei Foundation (Tim Ferriss and Matt Mullenweg). POPLAR is the first academic initiative focused on psychedelics law and policy. Second, in November 2023, with the Center for Advanced Studies in Biomedical Innovation Law (CeBIL) at the University of Copenhagen (UCPH), the Center announced a second generous five-year grant from the Novo Nordisk Foundation that enables our Project on Precision Medicine, Artificial Intelligence, and the Law \(PMAIL\) to continue its close collaboration with the International Collaborative Bioscience Innovation & Law Programme (Inter-CeBIL).

Other areas of specific pride for the Petrie-Flom Center also include increased digital media and event presence, our connection to Harvard Law School students, and the robust inclusion of the Center's experts in media coverage. Our successful digital symposia program explored diverse topics, including public health's past, present, and future and reproductive technologies and workplace equality. Our blog received over a million unique visitors this year and was quoted or linked to by outlets such as the New York Times, The Atlantic, LA Times, Vox, and Bloomberg. Center affiliates also were quoted and interviewed by leading media outlets including the New Yorker, the Boston Globe, NPR, and STAT.

Upcoming Initiatives. The Petrie-Flom Center is looking forward to our annual conference, focusing on The Law and Policy of Psychedelic Medicine, which we hope will also lead to an edited volume. In the summer of 2024, the Petrie-Flom Center will also host a three-day bootcamp for rising thought leaders on the legal, policy, and ethical issues surrounding psychedelics. We look forward to the publication of our volumes on digital at home medical technologies and health law as private law, both with the Cambridge University Press. The Petrie-Flom Center also will continue its robust digital media work and event calendar this year.

CENTER FOR HEALTH LAW & POLICY INNOVATION (CHLPI) AND HEALTH LAW & POLICY CLINIC (HLPC) OF HARVARD LAW SCHOOL

The Center for Health Law and Policy Innovation of Harvard Law School is thrilled to welcome its new Faculty Director of the Health Law and Policy Clinic, Carmel Shachar. Carmel Shachar is also Assistant Clinical Professor of Law at Harvard Law School.

The Center is also thrilled to have hosted the 10th Annual Food is Medicine Symposium in partnership with Community Servings on October 11, 2023. In addition, the Center hosted several talks in 2023, including Policy Applied: Addressing Nutrition through Produce Prescriptions in Medicaid Managed Care in July 2023, Building Partnerships to Advance Nutrition Access & Health: Case Studies from Harvard's CHLPI and California's Medically Supportive Food & Nutrition Steering Committee in June 2023, and Food is Medicine: A Federal Policy Update in June 2023.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY ROBERT H. MCKINNEY SCHOOL OF LAW

Awards & Recognition: IU McKinney School of Law’s Hall Center for Law and Health earned a perfect A+ rating from Pre-Law Magazine in its 2023 Back to School issue. The Center is one of only fifteen schools to receive this distinction.

Grand Rounds Series: The Hall Center hosted three Virtual Grand Rounds in 2023. On April 13, 2023, Jessica Lind Mantel from the Health Law & Policy Institute, University of Houston Law Center, delivered her presentation on, “Why our Multi-Payor System Frustrates Delivery System Reform and What to Do About It”, drawing 292 virtual attendees. • On September 14, 2023, Michael Ulrich from Boston University School of Public Health and School of Law, delivered his presentation on, “Bruen’s Burdens in the Ongoing Fight Against Gun Violence”, drawing 372 virtual attendees. • On November 9, 2023, Robyn M. Powell from the University of Oklahoma College of Law, delivered her presentation on, “Abortion Rights as Disability Rights: Safeguarding Choice After Dobbs”, drawing 340 virtual attendees. In a strong effort to draw attendees from several disciplines, all Virtual Grand Rounds in the series offered CLE credit and CEU Certificates for Behavioral Health & Human Services Providers.

Conferences/Symposia: In March, the Hall Center hosted the McDonald Merrill Ketcham Award and Lecture. The 2023 award honored Ruqaiyah Yearby, Co-Founder and Faculty Affiliate, The Institute for Healing Justice & Equity; and Kara J Trott Professor in Health Law, Moritz College of Law, The Ohio State University. Professor Yearby’s lecture, “Structural Racism in Law and Medicine: The Root Cause of Health Inequities”, was immediately followed by a panel presentation featuring Shawneequa Callier, Aila Hoss, and Dr. Tiffany Kyser. • On October 27, 2024, the Center hosted the 2023 Indiana Health Law Review Symposium, “Health and Housing Outcomes: Health, Housing, and the Environment”. The Opening Keynote Address, “The Intersection of Homelessness & Health: A Public Health Issue”, was presented by Stephen Brown, Director of Preventive Emergency Medicine, Senior Director of Social and Behavioral Health Transformation & Advocacy,

University of Illinois Hospital & Health Sciences System (UI Health). Our Afternoon Keynote Address, “Best Practices to Protect Children from Lead”, was presented by Carlton Waterhouse, Professor of Law and Director of Environmental and Climate Justice Center, Howard University School of Law. In total, including three panels, we were fortunate to feature 12 local and national speakers.

Upcoming Events: On March 27, 2025, the Hall Center for Law and Health will be hosting a Virtual Grand Rounds featuring Greer Donley, Associate Professor of Law, University of Pittsburgh Law School, presenting on mifepristone access.

LOYOLA UNIVERSITY CHICAGO SCHOOL OF LAW

New Faculty Hires: Alice Setrini joined the Health Justice Project as a Clinical Teaching Fellow in July 2023. Prior to joining Loyola, Alice served as the executive director of the Jaharis Health Law Institute at DePaul College of Law.

Loyola University Chicago School of Law's Health Justice Project (HJP): The HJP continues to address the health harming legal needs of vulnerable patients in Chicago and its near western suburbs through its medical-legal partnerships with Erie Family Health Centers and Loyola Medicine and Loyola's Stritch School of Medicine. As part of the HJP, faculty and students engage in outreach to communities, educate health care partners on legal issues impacting health and well-being, and engage in direct civil legal services and upstream advocacy to address the social, legal and systems issues that present barriers to good health and health equity. As part of the HJP Clinic, teams of law, medical, and social work students obtained dismissals of two deportation cases against families fleeing cartel violence in Mexico, obtained guardianships to support the care of adults and minors with disabilities, ensured coverage for life altering medications for a child with disabilities, and sustained of secured Medicaid, SNAP, and supplemental social security income benefits (SSI) benefits for clients. The HJP continued to support the Illinois Medical Legal Partnership Task Force, bringing MLP advocates from across the state together for collaboration, training, and information sharing and has developed and monitors the MLP Illinois website.

Community Equity Response Collaborative Loyola (CERCL): HJP continues as a lead with CERCL, formerly the COVID Equity Response Collaborative, a network of Loyola students and faculty in medicine, public health, and nursing addressing the unmet needs of communities disproportionately impacted by COVID-19 and other health disparities, but under resourced with necessary supports and services. CERCL continues to work with community partners in Maywood, Illinois, the site of Loyola University's Health Sciences Campus, and neighboring communities in the near western suburbs of Cook County to address health equity issues through its Community Engagement Fellowship program, a ten-week program which brings together interdisciplinary teams students and faculty from across a wide variety of Loyola University programs and campuses to learn about health equity issues in the near western suburbs of Chicago and to partner with community organizations to engage in research and project and policy development to address health inequities. CERCL affiliate faculty also support community organizations and agencies with research and programmatic support to address health disparities.

NOVA SOUTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY SHEPARD BROAD COLLEGE OF LAW

Center News: NSU Law was pleased this year to continue its tradition of interdisciplinary cooperation between students and faculty at the multiple colleges within the university, including those comprising its Health Professions Division. Professors and students in NSU Law and NSU College of Allopathic Medicine came together to host “Making an Impact in Law and Medicine,” an event where over a hundred high school students from underrepresented minorities came together to learn about the intersection of law and medicine and potential careers in this area. NSU Law continued to develop this community outreach by creating a new program titled, “Advancing Underrepresented Youth in Law & Medicine” where, under the training of the faculty, law and medical students will host several seminars at a local high school campus to teach and mentor high school students about how to prepare for law or medical school and how these two professions intersect to improve care and reduce health care disparities. NSU Law students also collaborated with the students in the Physician Assistant program to engage in interprofessional combined class sessions on HIPAA, Privacy, Fraud and Abuse, and Disability Law compliance. Additionally, all were able to participate and exchange perspectives in “Examining Health Care Fraud and Fraud Trends,” the law school’s fourth annual Jay A. Ziskind Health Law Lecture Series in October 2023. The Disability Inclusion and Advocacy Law Clinic (DIAL Clinic), funded by the Taft Foundation, received an approximately two million dollar grant over four years which gives the DIAL Clinic the ability to expand its services to the disability community. The DIAL Clinic has transitioned into a full-scale Disability Rights Law Clinic focusing on Civil Rights Law, Education Law, Housing Discrimination, Parental Rights for Adults with Disabilities, Employment Discrimination, Guardianship Law, and benefits. The DIAL Clinic has been lauded on local and national news for its effective advocacy for the disability community. The DIAL Clinic hosted an exhibitor's booth at the State of Florida Family Café to answer legal questions to the thousands of people with disabilities and their families present. The DIAL Clinic will host a Guardian Advocacy Workshop for parents and young adults with disabilities to learn about guardianship alternatives and to spread the legal word about guardian advocacy. NSU Health Law students continue to excel in co-curricular competitions receiving the first-place overall award in the 2023 Loyola University Chicago School of Law National Health Law Transactional Competition and the Best Brief and second-place overall at the 2023 National Disability Law Appellate Competition hosted by Syracuse University College of Law.

SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF LAW

Center for Health Law Studies Highlights: SLU Law adds Jamille Fields Allsbrook to the Center for Health Law Studies Faculty. We are pleased to announce the appointment of Fields Allsbrook, a health law and policy expert, to the faculty beginning in July of 2023. Most recently, she served as a senior policy advisor in the Office of Population Affairs in the United States Department of Health and Human Services. She has past experience at the Center for American Progress as the director of women’s health and rights. She focuses much of her research and scholarship on health equity and health outcomes in maternal health for Black women. She has published her policy research with the Center for American Progress and Health Affairs. • Robert Gatter, director of the Center for Health Law Studies, has spent much of his time since the COVID-19 pandemic focusing on the improvement of public health laws and policies. He served as the reporter for the Uniform Law Commission (ULC) focusing on a model state law for public health emergency powers. As the Reporter, Gatter performed the legal research to frame and inform the Committee's deliberations and drafted iterations of the model law as the Committee developed its final version. The model law was put forward to the entire voting body of the ULC and was approved at its annual meeting, which was held at the end of July in Honolulu, Hawaii. • Kelly Gillespie is a nationally recognized expert in drug policy with practical experience in pain management care. Gillespie focuses her scholarship on the law and policy of substance abuse disorder and of opioid prescribing. She is the co-author of an amicus brief in the recent United States Supreme Court case, Ruan v United States that examined a physician's responsibility in the overprescribing of opioids. The Court's ruling ultimately aligned with Gillespie's brief, stating that the crime of prescribing controlled substances outside the usual course of practice requires that the defendant "knowingly or intentionally" acted in an unlawful manner. • Michael Sinha focused much of his scholarship this year on pharmaceutical law and policy. He published a piece in the American University Law Review on the regulation of the generic pharmaceutical industry. He also published an article entitled "Court Intrusion Into Science and Medicine – the Mifepristone Decision" in the widely read Journal of the American Medical Association. The article was written in conjunction with Daniel Aaron, MD, JD and Teneille Brown, JD both of the University of Utah's S.J. Quinney College of Law. • Sidney D. Watson, professor and scholar in residence, continued her work on improving access to health care through legislative initiatives and new opportunities for legal advocacy. Watson completed work on the "Model Pharmacist Collaboration for Medication for Addiction Treatment Act" with funding from the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy and with collaborators and SLU Law affiliated faculty Fred Rottnek and Liz Chiarello. The model act is forthcoming through the Legislative Analysis and Public Policy Association. Watson also served as the principal investigator for the Missouri Foundation for Health Opportunity Grant to establish the Saint Louis Children's Health Justice Medical-Legal Partnership. Watson is president-elect of the American Society of Law, Medicine, and Ethics Board of Directors. • Taleed El-Sabawi is visiting from Florida International University College of Law for the 2023-2024 academic year. El-Sabawi focuses her scholarship and research on health care access of incarcerated individuals, particularly those in withdrawal. Her recent article, published in November of 2023 in the UCLA Law Review was entitled "Death by Withdrawal" and focused on the policies and practices in jails and prisons around the country that continue to facilitate the death, pain, and suffering of people who use drugs by refusing to properly screen and medically manage withdrawal for persons in custody.

22nd Annual Health Law Scholars Weekend: Since 2002, we have been privileged to partner with ASLME to host the Health Law Scholars Workshop. Health Law Scholars is a collegial forum in which faculty new to health law and bioethics scholarship present works-in-progress and receive in-depth advice and critique from experienced scholars and teachers in the field of health law and bioethics. This fall, from Sept. 28th - 30th, we completed our 22nd Annual Health Law Scholars Workshop. We are grateful for our health law village who make Health Law Scholars possible. We extend our sincere thanks to the Scholars who trusted us with their works-in-progress: Anjali Deshmukh (Georgia State College of Law), Tomar Pierson-Brown (University of Pittsburgh School of Law), Lauren Roth (Touro Law Jacob D. Fuchsberg Law Center), and Britney Wilson (New York Law School). We want to extend a special thank you to our guest readers who commented on drafts and provide ongoing mentorship: Wendy Netter Epstein (DePaul College of Law), Jill Wieber Lens (University of Arkansas School of Law), Elizabeth Pendo (University of Washington School of Law), Rachel Sachs (Washington University in St. Louis School of Law), and Ruqaiijah Yearby (The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law). Finally, we appreciate the efforts of our nominating committee who donate their time to read the submitted abstracts and use a blind selection process to select the papers to be presented at the workshop. The 2023 committee included: Scott Burris (Temple Law School), Nathan Cortez (SMU Dedman School of Law), Robert Gatter (SLU Law), Sharona Hoffman (Case Western Reserve University School of Law), John Jacobi (Seton Hall School of Law), Joan Krause (University of North Carolina School of Law), and Lindsay Wiley (UCLA School of Law).

Health Law Distinguished Speaker Series: During the Spring 2023 semester we were delighted to host Michael A. Carrier (Board of Governors Professor of Law at Rutgers Law School) to speak on Three Challenges for Pharmaceutical Antitrust. This fall, we have had the opportunity to host two distinguished speakers: Deborah Farringer (Associate Dean for Academic Affairs & Associate Professor of Law at Belmont University College of Law and Director of Health Law Studies) spoke on Cybersecurity Liability Shifting; Ross Brownson (Steven H. and Susan U. Lipstein Distinguished Professor at Washington University in St. Louis' Brown School) presented Revisiting Concepts of Evidence in Public Health Research.

UNIVERSITY OF HOUSTON LAW CENTER

2023 was another successful year for the Health Law & Policy Institute (HLPI), and our faculty reported significant professional accomplishments. Jessica Roberts continues her work as Co-Investigator on a $2.5 million grant from NIHM and NHGRI, where she leads a working group to explore legal questions related to the pediatric psychiatric use of polygenic risk scores. Dov Fox of the University of San Diego School of Law, Natalie Ram of the University of Maryland Francis King Carey School of Law, and Leah Fowler of the University of Houston Law Center are working with her on the legal aim.

HLPI hosted several impressive events this past year, including its 11th Annual Symposium Workshop for the HOUSTON JOURNAL OF HEALTH LAW & POLICY on October 20th. The event, entitled “Regulating AI in Health Care,” explored the promises and perils of incorporating artificial intelligence and machine learning in medical settings. We were pleased to host Vasiliki Rahimzadeh of Baylor College of Medicine, Mahsa Shabani of the University of Amsterdam, Valarie Blake and Amy Cyphert of West Virginia University College of Law, Stacey Tovino of the University of Oklahoma College of Law, and E. Haavi Morreim of the University of Tennessee Health Science Center as authors. In March, we hosted Professor Matthew Lawrence, Associate Professor of Law at Emory Law School, as part of our UHLC external colloquium workshop series.
