 - patriated and renamed constitution: Constitution Act, 1867
 - last UK statute: s 2 ended UK legislative authority
- Constitution Act, 1982 (Schedule B to Canada Act, 1982)
 - Part I: Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms

Present structure of government

- Constitutional monarchy
 - -British Queen = Canada's head of state
 - -Executive authority vested in the Queen
 - -represented by Governor General + Lieutenant-Governors
- Bicameral parliamentary system and representative democracy—British roots
- Federation:
 - -federal and ten separate provincial jurisdictions deriving authority from single constitution
 - -three territories with legislated authority
 - -some indigenous self-government

Present constitutional documents

Constitution Act, 1867

–continues in force and is read together with...

Constitution Act, 1982

-http://laws-lois.justice.gc.ca/eng/Const/ Const_index.html

- -Preamble provided for later entry of other provinces
- –Preamble contemplates distinctive direction of Canada:
 - "One Dominion under the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, with a Constitution similar in Principle to that of the United Kingdom"
 - "such a Union would conduce to the Welfare of the Provinces and promote the Interests of the British Empire"

- Continues Executive Power in Queen (Part III)
 Executive Power extended to provinces via Lieutenant Governors, who are appointed by Governor General
- -Constitutes Parliament as the Queen, the Senate, the House of Commons (Part IV)
 - Bicameral Parliament
 - •Executive gives legislation force (Royal Assent)

-Senate

fixed number of senators appointed by Governor General (in practice as directed by Prime Minister) appointment for life (resignation or retirement)
regional representation—24 per Ontario, Quebec, Maritime, West plus one per territory

- -House of Commons
 - elected; representation by population
 - •number and allocation of seats alterable by ordinary legislation
 - •representation formula adjusted with census
 - at present, 338 seats, ranging from 121 for Ontario (most populous province) to four for PEI to one for each territory

- Distribution of legislative powers (Part VI)
- •s 91: exclusive federal legislative authority

•s 92: exclusive provincial legislative authority in enumerated areas

- •s 91:
- laws for the Peace, Order, and good Government of Canada (POGG)
- = a broad residual power rests in federal government
- notable enumerate areas of exclusive jurisdiction:
 - -91(2) trade and commerce
 - -91(24) Indians and reservations
 - -91(26) marriage and divorce
 - -91(27) criminal law including criminal procedure
 - -91(28) penitentiaries

- •s 92: exclusive legislative authority of the provinces
 - s 92(7) hospitals
 - s 92(10) local works and undertakings (not interprovincial)
 - s 92(12) solemnization of marriage
 - s 92(13) property and civil rights
 - s 92(14) administration of justice; establishment of courts
 - s 92(15) enforcement of provincial laws
 - s 92(16) matters of local or private nature
 - (= provincial residual clause)

 - –s 92(14) creates authority for provincial courts, with provincially appointed judges–no judge is elected in Canada
- •s 101: provides for Supreme Court of Canada

• Explicitly declares

"The Constitution of Canada is the supreme law of Canada, and any law that is inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution is, to the extent of the inconsistency, of no force or effect."

–enables constitutional challenges to legislation
–basis for government "References" of proposed laws to SCC for constitutionality assessment

- Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms ("the Charter") (= Part I; ss 1 to 34)
 - –applies to laws of Parliament and legislatures
 - -much judicial interpretation: refer to case law
- begins with limiting clause —fundamental rights and freedoms subject to

"such reasonable limits prescribed by law as can be demonstrably justified in a free and democratic society"

•s 2: four fundamental freedoms for everyone (not restricted to citizens, as are some rights)

"(a) freedom of conscience and religion; (b) freedom of thought, belief, opinion and expression, including freedom of the press and other media of communication;

- (c) freedom of peaceful assembly; and
- (d) freedom of association."

- s 7: "Everyone has the right to life, liberty and security of the person and the right not to be deprived thereof except in accordance with the principles of fundamental justice."
 - -frequent interaction with criminal law and criminal prosecutions
 - -considerable s 7 jurisprudence

- related criminal procedure rights in Charter:

–Affirmative action programs excepted

Another key subject of litigation and judicial interpretation•eg sexual orientation "read into" "sex" decades ago by SCC

- •s 33: key clause: "notwithstanding clause"
 - –a legislating body may expressly declare a law operative, notwithstanding a provision in section 2 or sections 7 through 15
 - -time-limited

• Other limits

-cannot be construed to deny Aboriginal treaty and other aboriginal rights (s 25)

-Charter rights to be interpreted consistently with "multicultural heritage" of Canadians (s 27)

•Outside Charter, s 35 constitutionalizes aboriginal and treaty rights of aboriginal peoples

-existing and future land claims agreements

-ongoing judicial interpretation

- -interaction with environmental, pipeline, construction projects, roadways, etc
- -present interpretation: positive "duty to consult"

Legislation creation—federal

- Bill introduced in House of Commons or Senate
- Numbered by chamber in which introduced:
- House of Commons: C-1
- Senate: S-1
 - -First Reading: bill circulated; no debate

 - -Third Reading: any Committee report reviewed, bill voted on
- If passed, same process in other chamber

- Given sequential chapter number for the annual volume of statutes

-e.g. SC 2017, c 1

• Comes into force as set out in statute

Legislation creation—federal

- Regulations prescribed under and confined to authority of enabling statute

- Otherwise, same procedure
 - -First Reading: bill circulated; no debate

- Comes into force as set out in statute

Legislation publication, research—federal

- No codification
- Periodic print consolidation of annual statutes and their amendments: RSC
- Periodic consolidation of regulations and their amendments: CRC

–last print consolidations = RSC 1985, CRC 1978

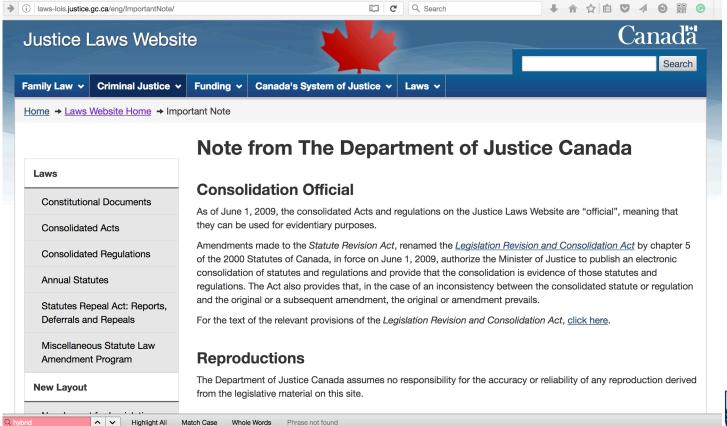

Legislation publication, research—federal

- Now consolidated electronically, ongoing

Introduction

This edition of Legal Research Manual builds on many previous editions. While the manual is designed principally for use by first year law students, upper year law students will also find it a useful reference.

The number of print and electronic tools available for research at law school as well as in practice is considerable. The tool or process that works best for one research issue might not be suitable for the next, and determining which sources to consult and search often depends on the nature of the question. While it is true that electronic legal research tools have made research quicker and sometimes easier, researchers are wise to be skeptical about claims by legal publishers concerning their "star" product. No matter how sophisticated the legal research tool, it never eliminates the need to think through a problem and prepare a research plan carefully. As the technology becomes more sophisticated and the number of research sources increases, the need for thorough analysis, logical organization, clear writing, and good judgment in knowing where to start and where to stop one's research remains.

What's in the guide

This guide contains a listing of books, databases, and looseleafs that contain forms or precedents in a particular area of law. Forms and precedents are useful for drafting and advocacy.

What are forms? Structured documents without any content filled in. Some forms are prescribed by law, for instance what form should be used in court; other examples of forms are types of contracts.

What are precedents? In this context, precedents are "standard contracts or other agreements or documents used as examples for later documents" (Dictionary of Canadian Law, 3rd ed).
